Research Projects in Active Philosophy

Key words: marginalization, social exclusion, work, comprehension, human dignity, human rights, integration, adaptation, empathy, mental capacities, stress strain syndrome, mental health, depression, digital culture, problem solving, life's project, narrative therapy.

6/2013-5/2015 Danish Charity Church Association. Provision of services regarding selective listening and support into a first job for those with ID documents even without a residence permit. Assistance with IT services. The volunteering team often lacks specific competencies in providing effective support in job-seeking, internet job research. Birth of the first philosophical help desk spot, to evaluate mental and social stress-strain syndrome and to provide active support to find a job where possible.

9/2015-3/2017 WANTERAUKTION*, Croix Rouge Luxemburg*. Project in cooperation with Red Cross in Luxembourg upon marginalized people, living in extreme conditions. The real problem about social marginalization is the digital exclusion. Red Cross centers are still providing help like in the XIX century, prioritizing food, warm blankets and medical. Our project was instead consisting in actively help people to apply for simple job vacant positions, speaking with potential employers and help to find a first occupation. The most important part of the project was about providing culture of digitalization, to be informed, to contact potential employers. We got an WIFI connection, inside the Red Cross Winter action building, and got second hand refurbished computers from a Danish humanitarian organization, and began by making lessons and proving digital certificates, teaching digital computer programs, such as website building courses, and internet account creation. Red Cross provides every year shelter, food and medical assistance to the social marginalized people during the winter time, from October to March. People's origins and social status are extremely variable. The smallest part are suffering from drug and alcohol addiction. Some others, even though having Luxembourg citizenship suffer from mental distress. In most cases they are illegal immigrants coming from countries not recognized on the list of those where refugee status is applicable. However, if a job can be found they can have residency, but they cannot have a job if they do not have residency. A trap situation.

2015-2017 LISKO, Lëtzebuerger Integratiouns-Sozialkohäsiounszenter, Inclusion French language learning project using digital media, kindle books, and digital translators, to speed up learning. The project targets those who despite having been received asylum, have remained in refugee camps for two years, and need to be quickly included in the society. Most people come from Arabic countries and do not even speak English.

2018-2020 Philosophy Help Desk at Municipality of Sedico, Belluno, in cooperation with the Department of Culture, the program was fully funded by philoActiva.org. The project consisted in listening to the daily life's problems and to the many predicaments affecting people. During the covid time an online philosophy help desk was established.

2019-2021 Philosophy Help Desk at Municipality of Vittorio Veneto, IT, in cooperation with the Department of Culture.

2020-2022 Full Digital programme for the University of Continuing Education Ippolito Pinto in Vittorio Veneto, IT. The project (still ongoing) was about bringing the full system courses online, due to the covid and lockdown continuing restrictions in Italy. The project consisted in making a team and working together on the realization of an online website starting from scratch. From the use of latptop, the use of hosting space, domains, wp system and theme website programs. Creation of online videos and special online courses platforms.
